Comments:

The competition was well run and the accommodation for the Jury acceptable at the hotel and the drop zone. Internet access was very weak and working with a remote juror became difficult but was made possible using my personal internet data through my telephone. This competition comprises two events: Acro Wingsuit Flying and Performance Flying. Whereas the former was conducted without any problems and in a friendly atmosphere, it was very different for the latter. Before the wingsuit inspection started, one competitor informed the CJ that another competitor's wingsuit was unsuitable. Although approved by the Judges at the inspection, the competitor continued his criticism by making a complaint and then went on to make a protest. He also solicited the manufacturer of the wingsuit and gave biased information to help plead his case. The protest failed. In spite of this he persisted including soliciting help from the Meet Director who, of course, declined. The atmosphere became one of suspicion amongst the competitors, discrediting both the judges and the jury decisions. This led to a competitor posting a caricature on Instagram which was then copied by two others and text was added. Without any doubt, the caricature was mocking the judges and the criticised competitor. These two situations caused numerous meetings between the Meet Director and the Jury, including the remote juror, as to whether Unsporting Behaviour had occurred. Finally, the three competitors who had posted on Instagram were given a warning and the NAC will be notified. The initial informant was not sanctioned but the ISC delegate for his country was informed. A more detailed report will be attached with the Protest file.
